

This man gets paid big money...

To make sure you EARN LESS!

He is a corporate lawyer who travels the country to try to smooth talk workers. His job is to keep your wages low, your working conditions poor, and to cut company-paid benefits for your family.

Management uses slick, highly-paid lawyers to try to trick you into believing that the company is your friend and the union is your enemy. Management keeps lawyers like these under contract to make sure you earn less while the top brass lives it up.

Your best protection against these slick lawyers is a written union contract. A union contract ensures a fair wage for a day's work and benefits to protect you and your family.
